MERN Stack Developer
Vvork cloud technologies, Lahore, Pakistan

Front-End: As a frontend developer at Vvork Cloud Technologies, I was responsible for creating and implementing visually appealing user interfaces and designing interactive user experiences for web applications. My key responsibilities included writing clean, efficient, and well-documented code using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, collaborating with the design team to ensure the best possible user experience, and troubleshooting any issues that arise during the development process.

Back-End: After proving my skills as a frontend developer, I was promoted to a junior MERN stack developer at Vvork Cloud Technologies. In this role, I worked with the MERN (MongoDB, Express, React, Node.js) stack to develop full-stack web applications. My responsibilities included writing server-side code using Node.js and Express, developing and maintaining MongoDB databases, and using React to build dynamic and responsive user interfaces.
